Contact City Leaders to Urge Them to Act Now to Save the District's Hospitality Industry

A grassroots effort has been launched to give employers and employees most impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic a platform to contact the Mayor and District Council to express the urgent need to take immediate action to save both business and jobs.

City leaders need to hear directly from employers and employees in the hospitality industry. With your voice, the Council and the Mayor will be able to hear first-hand about your experience trying to keep your hotels open, as well as the impact that it has had on your employees.

HAWDC urges members to contact the Mayor and the Council to communicate to them the need to act now. Click here for a link to a form letter that can be edited to add your personal stories. The letter will be sent directly to the Mayor and all Councilmembers. We also encourage you to send this link to your employees so their voices can be heard.
