As Election Day quickly approaches, there have been concerns regarding the potential for protests and civil unrest. HAWDC has met with officials from the District's Homeland Security and Emergency Management Agency (HSEMA) to discuss preparation for Election Day. At the moment, HSEMA has not been apprised of any communications that would indicate a potential for violence on Election Day. Currently, the District government has not issued a mandate for businesses to board up their properties.

HAWDC will be in constant communication with District officials between now and Election Day. If anything changes, we will update members accordingly.

Lisa
